Goncalves Ousted, Made Chief Of Staff

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Gen. Vasco Goncalves, whose Communist-backed premiership created a political storm that pushed Portugal toward civil war, was ousted Friday night and made chief of staff of the armed forces instead.

Goncalves was replaced after 18 months as head of government by Vice Adm. Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo, 58-year-old navy chief of staff and vice president under President Francisco de Costa Gomes.

Pinheiro de Azevedo ... premier of Portugal.

The changes were announced in a brief communique from the presidency after almost 48 straight hours of meetings among the leading military officers of the April 1974 revolution.

Goncalves' Communist sympathies had plunged the nation into a bitter and often violent dispute. Anti-Communist riots flared across northern Portugal, taking several lives and leaving 50 Communist headquarters in shambles. Moderates of the military's elite, the Revolutionary Council, had openly demanded Goncalves' ouster and had threatened civil war.

Adm. Azevedo, the new head of government, was born in Angola and moved regularly up through the ranks under the former rightist dictatorship. He saw action in Angola, where many young officers became disillusioned with Lisbon's endless colonial bloodshed and eventually resolved to change their government.

From 1972 to 1974 Azevedo served as commander of the marines, one of the few military units that is said to stand strongly behind Goncalves.

The close-mouthed admiral has given little indication of his political views, and civilian politicians have confessed they don't know where he stands on the basic issues.

The shift in leadership was made in the name of Costa Gomes, who yielded his job as military commander in what sources said was an attempt to settle the dispute without bloodshed.

It was questionable whether the compromise, which still leaves Goncalves in one of the most powerful posts, would satisfy moderate officers seeking a basic change in Portugal's political course.

The opposition to Goncalves was led by Mario Soares' Socialist party and the Popular Democrats — which together represent about two-thirds of the nation's voters — and by a dissident group of nine officers who claimed the support of 85% of the military.

Another active opponent of Goncalves was Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, the chief of security police who had shared power with Goncalves and Costa Gomes in a ruling triumvirate.

During the long meetings at Costa Gomes' palace, sources had indicated that Gen. Carlos Charais, commander of the central military district that includes Lisbon, was strongly opposed to giving Goncalves the top military command. He has kept his troops on maneuvers throughout the military meetings.

Putting Goncalves in command of Portugal's military could raise serious new problems with the country's North Atlantic allies, already alarmed over the country's leftward swing. Western diplomats expressed surprise at a shuffle that would give Goncalves access to NATO secrets.

Prize Brings Prize

Carol Sabatino, 2, of Mechanicville, N.Y., won first place as "Raggedy-Ann" in the pre-school and kindergarten section of the town's Story Time Parade Contest. She is admiring her prize, a book, even though it is upside-down.

N.Y. Times Summary

5% Raise Proposed

Washington — President Ford proposed a 5% pay increase for all federal employees, including members of Congress. This would assure members of Congress, under a law enacted last month, the same pay increase granted other federal employees each year. Ford rejected the recommendation of his federal pay advisers of a 8.66% salary increase on the ground it would be inflationary. But Congress will make the final decision on the size of the increase.

Japanese Prodded

Tokyo — Defense Secretary Schlesinger urged the Japanese to take a more active role in their own defense, called for improved antisubmarine, air and logistics units and agreed to new consultation with the Japanese on defense.

'Collect Everything'

Moscow — Soviet legal authorities have ordered tighter supervision of grain collected in the current harvest and warned that those guilty of theft and spoilage would be criminally prosecuted. The warning to farmers came amid exhortations by the Soviet press that they gather "everything that is grown."

Rocky Looks Back

Warsaw, N.Y. — Vice President Rockefeller, arriving here to testify before a grand jury investigating the prison uprising at Attica, said Friday guards and state police should have been sent in at the outset of the rebellion to retake the prison.

Deficit $3.3 Billion

New York — New York City has an accumulated deficit of $3.3 billion. The figure was agreed on by Gov. Hugh L. Carey, Mayor Abraham D. Beame, State Controller Arthur J. Levitt, City Controller Harrison J. Goldin and officials of the Municipal Assistance Corp. It includes debt from prior years as well as new deficits being incurred in the present fiscal year.

Art Exchange Salted

Moscow — Five major art exhibitions will be exchanged between the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York and the Soviet Union between now and 1980, it was announced in Moscow Friday by Thomas P. F. Hoving, the Metropolitan's director. Hoving said the agreement "was done in the spirit and letter of the Helsinki conference," at which cultural exchanges between nations was encouraged.

Rosenberg Material Released

Washington — The FBI has released to a Smith College history professor the first of its secret material on the espionage investigation of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg. Allen Weinstein, who first petitioned the agency for the material three years ago and later filed suit under the freedom of information act, said that the bulk of the material he was given Thursday was "very substantive."

Eamon De Valera Dies; He Was Erin Incarnate

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Eamon de Valera, New York-born revolutionary who manned the Dublin barricades in the 1916 Easter Rebellion and went on to become Ireland's prime minister three times and its president twice, died in a nursing home Friday at the age of 92.

A full state funeral was set for Tuesday. The occasion was designated a day of national mourning. Leaders from around the world were expected at the funeral in Glasnevin Cemetery.

The 6-foot-3 De Valera was the last rebel commander to surrender his outpost when British troops crushed the 1916 rebellion. He told them: "I am De Valera. Shoot me, but spare my men."

Years later he said: "If I wish to know what the Irish want, I look into my own heart."

De Valera, known affectionately as "Deey" to his countrymen, was Erin incarnate to millions of Irishmen, including poet William Butler Yeats who wrote: "He is a living argument rather than a living man."

Members of De Valera's fami-

Eamon de Valera ... Irish revolutionary.

ly and close aides were at his bedside when he died. Roman Catholic last rites were administered by his grandson, the Rev. Sean O'Cuiv.

"He died peacefully," said his son Vivian. His health had been failing since he retired from public life in 1973 after two seven-year terms as president.

De Valera joined the battle for Irish independence in 1916, abandoning his mathematics classroom at the National University of Ireland.

De Valera was condemned to death along with 15 others for his part in the rebellion but because of his American birth his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. He was freed in 1917 in a general amnesty.

But he did not live to see realization of his real desire, the unification of all Ireland.

Northern Ireland still remains a British province, racked by a sectarian struggle between Protestant and Roman Catholic that has claimed more than 1,000 lives over the past six years and left many thousands more injured.

De Valera dominated Irish politics for more than half a century and his leadership of the nation frequently brought him into direct conflict with Britain.

But among the first tributes were those of the British queen, Elizabeth II, and the British prime minister, Harold Wilson.

Both sent messages of condolences to Irish President Cearbhall O Dalaigh and Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave.

Kissinger Says Sinai Pact Sure Before Congress Acts

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Friday night that Israel and Egypt will sign a Sinai agreement before Congress acts on the use of American civilians in surveillance posts.

Kissinger said after meeting with Israeli negotiators for 8½ hours that he was aiming to have the two sides initial the pact early next week and signing could come a few days later.

Under the accord, Israel would stage a broad withdrawal giving up the Gidi and Mitla mountain passes and the Abu Rudeis oilfield in return for still unspecified political and diplomatic concessions from Egypt.

Until now American officials had given the impression that the Ford administration would seek congressional approval before the signing of an agreement that would interpose U.S. technicians between the separated armies.

The U.S. officials have said they anticipated some critical debate and "no wild enthusiasm" but eventual consent.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and some others have registered reservations about using Americans as part of the peacekeeping operation.

The initialing and signing by Israeli and Egyptian officials would be followed by extended talks between military commanders on how to implement the wide-ranging accord.

At the conclusion there would be another signing ceremony, this time including the United States — provided Congress had given its consent by then.

Kissinger told reporters he was "very optimistic" that the agreement will be concluded, though he said it was "not completely" ready for initialing by Israel and Egypt.

"We are in the final phases of negotiations," he said.

Kissinger planned a fifth shuttle flight to Alexandria Saturday morning to confer with President Anwar Sadat on remaining "nuances."

Kissinger said he had no doubt that Congress would eventually approve the American presence in Sinai.

It will have its chance to act on appropriation and authorization measures after the signing but before technical details are worked out by American and Israeli military commanders.

Some Israeli officials have said until now that the agreement would not be signed until Congress had a chance to vote it up or down.

Both Israeli and American officials have said there would be massive diplomatic problems if Congress vetoed the use of American technicians.

Most qualified observers see little chance of carrying out an accord without them.

"I am under the impression that they will sign," Kissinger said when asked about Israel's position on the issue.

Raft Flips; 3 Killed

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A state Office of Parks and Recreation spokesman said at least three persons were killed and one man was missing Friday after an experimental raft carrying 30 persons capsized in the lower Niagara River rapids. The raft flipped over in powerful rapids about three miles downstream from the famed waterfalls.

Niagara Frontier Park Police identified the dead as Anthony

John Sawczyk, 23, of Niagara Falls, N.Y.; David D. Ross of Toronto, Ont., and Julia Martinez, no hometown available.

Helicopters from both the Canadian and United States sides of the river flew into the river gorge and pulled survivors from the water and the shoreline at the base of the gorge.

The choppers lifted the survivors to a park area and ambulances rushed them to area hospitals.

Calm Reported In Dili, Timor

DARWIN, Australia (AP) — One of the two independence movements fighting for control of Portuguese Timor has gained the upper hand and has asked for Australian help in mediating a cease-fire, according to reports reaching here Friday. One source said the capital city of Dili was mostly "calm and peaceful."

At the same time, officials announced in Jakarta, Indonesia, that Indonesia had agreed to join Portugal in taking effective steps to put an end to the civil war in Timor. But it was not clear whether the agreement included joint military action.

Timor, the largest of the Lesser Sunda islands about 360 miles northwest of the northern tip of Australia, is half Portuguese and half Indonesian. The fighting has been only in the eastern half belonging to Portugal, which before the civil war had promised the colony independence in 1978.

An Australian refugee from Timor estimated on Friday that 2,000 of the colony's 600,000 persons had died in fighting between the Revolutionary Front for Independent East Timor — Fretilin — and the Timorese Democratic Union — UDT.

Gerald Stone, an Australian television journalist, reported from Dili that Fretilin was effectively in control of the capital.

Angolan Groups Agree On Truce

Lisbon, Portugal (UPI) — Representatives of two Angolan liberation movements said Friday they have agreed on the principles of an immediate cease-fire in the African colony and an exchange of prisoners.

The two movements are the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola and the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola, a moderate independence organization.

The independent weekly newspaper O Jornal said the agreement was worked out by Popular Movement representative Lopo do Nascimento and National Union delegate Jose Mebela.

It was not known what effect the cease-fire would have on the Peking-backed National Front for the Liberation of Angola, a third group involved in civil strife in the oil-rich Portuguese territory.

The National Front and National Union had formed an alliance against the Popular Movement. All three groups are vying for control of the country before it gains full independence from Portugal.

Whole Truth Ordered In Ads On Car Mileage

Washington (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission, seeking to "bring some order out of the chaos," Friday issued guidelines to force automakers to tell the whole truth about their cars' fuel economy.

The guidelines, requiring that anticipated mileage figures for both city and highway driving be given equal billing, will go into effect Oct. 15. They will stay in force until permanent — and perhaps tougher — rules are developed, a process that will take a year or more.

J. Thomas Rosch, director of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, said the commission "has been agonizing" for weeks what to do about fuel economy ads and had decided Thursday it could wait no longer to act.

Although the FTC is worried about widespread criticism that test procedures used by the Environmental Protection Agency are not a reliable measure of fuel economy, Rosch said, the EPA figures are now the only common reference available and so form the basis of the guidelines.

The guidelines require that: — Advertisements making fuel economy claims cite EPA test results both for city and highway driving "in a clear and conspicuous manner."

— When fuel economy claims are made for cars available in more than one engine size, transmission type or fuel system, those factors must be disclosed for the car used in the test.

— When mileage figures are cited that are not derived from EPA tests, the advertisement must cite optional equipment carried that may affect fuel economy.

— Ads stress the mileage claims are estimates and that actual mileage may differ depending on driving habits, condition of the car, and optional equipment.

Officer Too Slow

Iowa City, Iowa (AP) — Police Chief David Epstein requisitioned a new uniform for officer Tom Walden, contending an old one was "more fragrant than good public relations would dictate."

Walden had been sent out with orders to shoot on sight a skunk trapped near an Iowa City residence.

The skunk sighted Walden first.

Velasco Ouster Bloodless

LEMA, Peru (AP) — President Juan Velasco's fellow generals staged a bloodless palace coup Friday, removing the ailing leader but declaring they would continue his "socialist revolution."

Military commanders named the prime minister, Gen. Francisco Morales Bermudez, to replace the 65-year-old Velasco, whose leftist regime had ruled for seven years.

Morales flew to Lima from Tacna, 600 miles to the south where the coup had been planned, and entered the presidential office building without fanfare at dusk. He was expected to be sworn in by a council of military commanders Saturday.

Morales' most immediate problem will be how to cope with inflation, now pegged at 30 per cent. It is compounded by the slump in the international price of copper and other minerals that provide the country with a large share of its foreign earnings.

Peru is one of the poorer South American countries, with per capita income registered in 1973 of $630. Nearly 40 per cent of the population is outside of the money economy.

Bomb Squad Man Is Killed

LONDON (AP) — A terrorist bomb exploded in the heart of London Friday night, killing a police explosives expert who was trying to defuse it.

It was the third blast in and around the British capital within three days, and English police braced for a new wave of terrorist attacks. The first two explosions left 40 persons wounded but none killed.

Scotland Yard reported the latest bomb was wrapped in brown paper and placed in the doorway of a shoe store a few hundred yards from Kensington Palace, the home of Prince Margaret.

An anonymous telephone call to the Daily Mail newspaper warned of the bomb and the street was cleared while the bomb disposal squad moved in.

A witness to the blast said, "There was an almighty explosion and a body was thrown through the air, covered in blood."

Police believe a radical splinter group of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) may be responsible for the upsurge in bombings.

J. Agnew Guilty Of Trespassing

BALTIMORE (AP) — James Rand Agnew, the only son of the former vice president, was convicted Friday of a trespassing charge arising out of a Peeping Tom incident July 7.

After finding the 28-year-old defendant guilty, Baltimore District Court Judge Sol Friedman ordered the verdict stricken and granted Agnew probation without judgment.

DAC Doesn't Want A 'Zipper'

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

The Towntown Advisory Committee (DAC) wants an artistic lighting system along J St., not a "zipper."

And Friday DAC members voted to reaffirm their original proposal for ornamental light fixtures along a four-block stretch of J St. between the State Capital and the County City Building.

Lincoln Electric System (LES) had asked that the J St. lighting plan be changed to lower ornamental lights in a median strip along a portion of J St. and 32-foot-high lights along the rest of the beautification project.

LES arguments of less vandalism with the higher lights and better illumination were termed a "snow job" by DAC member Barbara Henderson.

Putting the lights down the grassy median would destroy the "openness" theme of the J St. project and would look like "the zipper on a woman's dress," said DAC member Sue Bailey.

The delayed O St. beautification project, a second level skywalk and progress on the Centrum project were also discussed at Friday's meeting.

The O St. beautification project is apparently at a standstill, according to discussion by DAC members.

Owners along the O St. project which stretches from 9th to 16th want assurances that they will not be forced to pay twice, once through the improvement district assessment and once for projects already completed by individual businesses.

And those businesses which have already made such improvements as new sidewalks don't want improvement specifications changed so that the newly beautified area would have to be redone.

Owners don't want to sign the improvement district petitions without these assurances, said John Campbell, Miller & Paine president. But city attorneys have said that such assurances can't be made.

A proposed second level skywalk, connecting second stories of businesses along O to M from 12th to 14th, could pass as a public pedestrian system and be financed through an improvement district, Lannie Jorgensen, director of the Lincoln Center Development Association, reported to DAC.

But just how property owners might be assessed has yet to be determined. A DAC subcommittee is currently looking at three different skywalk models — the Pinto, the Cadillac, and the Rolls-Royce — with estimated price tags ranging from $500,000 to $1.2 million.

The task force is trying to determine how costs might be assessed for each version of the skywalk, Jorgensen said.

"Public officials now feel that we have a Centrum project because of substantial progress in negotiations and purchases," DAC Chairman Richard White said.

The city is in the process of acquiring land from 11th to 12th, N to O. The land will eventually be used for a combination parking garage and retail complex.

Along 11th St., the city has purchased everything south of the alley except for one small parcel, White said.

TENNILLE . . . arrives at airport.

Fremont St. Widening Question Goes Back To Planning Stages

The question of just how wide Fremont St. should be was bucked back to the planning stages Friday as the Officials Committee, (one link in the planning process) asked the Technical Committee to restudy the street.

The Officials Committee — comprised of the County Board chairman, the mayor and the State Roads Department engineer — advises the City Council and County Board on matters relating to transportation systems and transportation planning.

The Technical Committee, which provides the technical expertise in the beginning stages of transportation planning, was asked to determine the effect on Fremont St. if

- Fremont from 48th to 70th were taken out of the arterial system, and given residential street status.
- Fremont continued as an arterial from 48th to Touzalin Ave. but returned to residential street from Touzalin to 70th.

But the people who live on Fremont already know what they want. J.R. Downing, president of the Fremont Area Citizens Committee, told the group.

The residents are willing to go as wide as 38 feet, but no wider. And they don't want their street partially residential and partially arterial, Downing said.

Fremont is presently a 20-foot-wide street without curb and gutters. A 38-foot-wide street would give two driving lanes plus parking, according to Dick Erickson, city engineer.

Downing's presentation was cut short when Officials Committee Chairman Jan Gauger said that citizen input on the street design should come at a later date.

Funeral Group President Sees Both Good, Bad

Omaha (AP) — The president of the Nebraska Funeral Directors Association says the proposed rules of the Federal Trade Commission contain good and bad points.

Dick Denton, who is also president of Swanson-Golden Mortuary in Omaha, said there is a lot of not picking in the FTC position but there are a lot of things that would be good for the industry in general.

The FTC's proposed rules would require disclosure of funeral prices and prohibit various exploitative, unfair and deceptive practices.

Denton said he believes it would be good for the industry to itemize costs.

He said the main complaint would be the feeling that another federal agency is "running our business."

He suggested any new regulations come from the industry itself or the legislatures.

The Captain And Tennille Should Have Played In '57

The Captain and Tennille should have played the Nebraska State Fair in 1957. The Captain (Daryl Dragon) would have been just a kid. But he would have been a hit.

It was the Captain's Fats Domino-influenced boogie songs that got the best reaction from the grandstand crowd Friday night. Not that the group's big hit, "Love Can Keep Us Together" wasn't received well. It was. But some of the other numbers had the crowd looking longingly at the lights of the midway.

Part of the problem may lie in the contrast between Dragon and Mrs. Dragon (Tennille) on stage.

Tennille comes to the audience like a mother dog trying to build a lasting relationship with her first litter of pups. The Captain plugs himself into his electric organ and synthesizers with all the visible enthusiasm of a technician programming computers for nuclear warfare.

But the music that comes out is good. And if the group can capture some of the spontaneity like that forced upon them when the bass drum head broke just before the closing number, the Dragons may be staying in the good hotels and playing to big crowds for a while longer.

For now, however, the Captain and Tennille is a sugar-and-spice-and-everything-nice group with too much sugar, not enough spice and stomach-turning amounts of nice.

Guidelines Announced For Meals At School

Eligibility guidelines for school meals at reduced prices or for free were announced by the State Department of Education.

All public schools in Lincoln participate in this federally subsidized program to bring hot meals to children of low-income families.

To be declared eligible, parents must fill out the appropriate forms said Dr. Ray Steiner, director of school food services.

The forms will be sent to all parents with a child in the Lincoln public school system.

Steiner said many families fall within the guidelines after deductions for unusual expenses, such as high medical bills, are considered.

Applications are confidential and are accepted anytime during the school year. Each application is reviewed by a local school official who determines eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling, Steiner said, he may appeal to the school superintendent or a school board member.

In certain cases foster children are eligible, and no child is discriminated against because of race, sex, color or origin, he said.

The Income Poverty Guidelines for 1976 are:

Family Size	Free Meals	Reduced Price Meals
One	$ 3.230	$ 4.520
Two	4.240	5.250
Three	5.250	6.260

Aiming For Second Place?

Ronald Reagan of California continues to tantalize Republican conservatives and some conservatives who aren't Republicans as an alternative to President Ford. He is, however, playing a waiting game on which the clock is about to run out.

There is no doubt that a shadow candidacy is now being run.

A citizens for Reagan organization is operating out of Washington, D.C.; a million pieces of fundraising literature have been put in the mail and a call for volunteers has been sent up. Reagan intimates insist that of course he will run for president. Reagan himself said this week that a contest for the GOP presidential nomination would be a healthy thing for the party and should not tear it apart. And it would be a healthy thing for the party.

The problem is for Reagan that the longer he waits, the less chance there is for any kind of a contest.

While Ford's standing with the general electorate is not really secure, he is preempting the field so to speak in Reagan territory — among former supporters and workers for the ex-governor, in the South, among conservatives whose heads would have been turned by Reagan had he made a move some time ago.

Meanwhile Reagan acts like a candidate but won't declare himself one. He says a final decision will be made after another nationwide speaking tour or at least by the first of the year.

Soon, however, Ford will have effectively nullified any chances Reagan might have had in stopping his nomination through the delegate process. Ford can through hard work have his nomination sewn up ten months or so in advance while Reagan still talks of a final decision.

Which points to the probability that Reagan and his supporters have already given up and will work instead — no matter how much Reagan may now deny it — at getting Nelson Rockefeller dumped from the Ford ticket and replaced by Reagan himself.

Reagan is believable when he says he will not go the third party route. But he is not nearly so believable when he says he will completely rule out any possibility of joining the ticket as a vice presidential candidate.

That is probably Reagan's last and best chance for national glory, even if it would weaken the ticket.

Aiding The Refugees

Some 45,000 Vietnamese refugees awaiting settlement in the U.S. are still in tents on Guam or in other camps as the typhoon and cold weather seasons approach. The federal government wants them settled in permanent locations as quickly as possible, but sponsorship problems apparently have slowed down the rate of resettlement. Already between 90,000 and 100,000 refugees have found homes, and many have found jobs across the country. Willing sponsors are apparently hard to come by for the remainder.

Responding to federal suggestions that the state take blanket responsibility for locating 1,000 additional refugees in Nebraska, Gov. Exon this week told a group of people concerned with helping the refugees that "we decided it would be wrong for the governor to say arbitrarily that we'll take them, jamming it down the throats of Nebraskans." Rather, Exon told 30 church, government and community leaders that he believes Nebraskans will be able to extend help to the remaining refugees without being force-fed. "I'm sure Nebraskans will open their arms to them on a voluntary basis," he said.

Hopefully, that will be the case. Nebraska communities actively sought Vietnamese with medical skills and concerned citizens and church groups have sponsored Vietnamese from other walks of life. Nebraskans have done, over all, a very good job of helping the 608 refugees who have settled here thus far.

We might look around us, however. The State of Iowa has agreed to sponsor 500 refugees in addition to those already located in Iowa and Oklahoma's state government has agreed to aid an additional 1,500.

It is hoped that Nebraska's volunteer effort can match the efforts of our neighboring states at least on a proportional basis.

Was NATO Betrayed?

WASHINGTON — Intelligence reports claim that a Cuban military delegation has been pumping Portuguese officers in Lisbon for NATO secrets. The Cubans were particularly curious, according to the reports, about U.S. naval maneuvers in the Caribbean.

This confirms the worst fears of the other NATO partners, who have been worried about NATO security ever since the communist-leaning junta took over Portugal.

As a NATO member, Portugal has had access to NATO codes and classified documents. Lisbon has also been kept informed on NATO policies, strategies and tactics.

Since the communist sympathizers have come to power in Portugal, NATO codes have been changed, and Lisbon has been cut off from the flow of sensitive information. But a trickle of data still reaches Portugal from its NATO conferees. In an earlier column, we reported the arrival in Lisbon of a high-powered Cuban delegation, which included Army commanders Senen Casas Reguero and Fernando Vecino Alegret.

and Navy Captain Emigdio Baez. Their surprise appearance was passed off by Lisbon as a ceremonial visit. But our intelligence sources are convinced that the Cubans received secret briefings on NATO and other military matters.

The Cubans met at Portugal's Armed Forces Movement Sociology Center with junta chief Vasco Gonçalves, Gen. Carlos Fabiao, Adm. Antonio Rosa Coutinho and Col. Varela Gomes. The latter runs the center.

Coutinho has been dubbed "the Red Admiral" by Portuguese settlers in Angola. As governor of the colony, Coutinho encouraged the pro-Moscow faction and helped them get Soviet arms through Luanda and Lobito. This enflamed the three-cornered war in Angola and forced the settlers to flee for their lives to Portugal.

The Cubans pressed their Portuguese comrades, meanwhile, for information about NATO, especially the U.S. Navy's annual Operation Springboard maneuvers near Cuba.

It is understood that the Portuguese military leaders cooperated, but there is no firm intelligence on what secrets were compromised.

Footnote: On August 17, according to our intelligence sources, the "Red Admiral" visited Cuba at the invitation of Cuban Defense Minister Raul Castro. The admiral was greeted by some of the same Cubans he met at the center in Portugal.

With flying fists and feet, half-a-dozen members of Congress will battle for the karate championships of Capitol Hill on September 14 at Washington's D.C. Armory. The Senate will put up Sen. Quentin Burdick, R-N.D., vs. Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska. Burdick has been trouncing down for the bout and Stevens has been receiving daily private lessons from karate master Jhoon Rhee.

From the House side, Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., will fight Rep. Floyd Spence, R-S.C., and Rep. Walter Fauntroy, D-D.C. will square off against Rep. Willis D. Gradison Jr., R-Ohio. The proceeds will go to a legal defense fund to help investigative reporters.

CHARLES SEIB

WASHINGTON — Finally we have come to the end of the doidrums, the dog days, the silly season. Call it what you will, it's over, and a good thing, too. It was a tough time for the news business — a time when it seemed that the main problem with the press was that you couldn't turn it off.

For a decade and more we had been living with crises in all seasons. Quiet summers seemed to have passed with the flagpole sitters who used to enliven them. Last summer, for example, we were saying our troubled good-bys to a disgraced President and our hopeful hellos to a nice, clean new one, while the dying rages of a hatred war sounded in the background.

But this summer, with no crises except such familiar companions as a crazed economy and perpetual future shock, we got a reminder of what it was like in the long ago. And the press, at least, wasn't ready for it. We of the news business know how to handle big deals like a toppling government or a divisive war.

In their absence, we tend to be uncertain and, with all that newsprint and air time to fill, garrulous. Like an army equipped with nuclear weapons trying to fight a brushfire war, we have lost our touch for the less-than-cataclysmic event.

We did the best we could, of course. There was some old-fashioned, press-card-in-the-laband journalism out of Detroit after Jimmie Hoffa disappeared. With characters like Anthony (Tony Pro) This and

Silly Season Was Not Too Bad

BETTY FORD... plain talk brought some fancy reaction...

MORLEY SAFER... charged with invasion of First Family's privacy...

Anthony (Tony Jack) That and a cameo appearance by lovable old Mickey Cohen, the story should have seen us through until Labor Day, and in the old days it would have.

But the zest went out of it when it became apparent that there was at least a 50-50 chance that Hoffa was dead. The coverage never reached the crescendo we used to achieve when Chicago was the center of such goings-on.

The Bronfman kidnapping provided some lively days and even a happy ending. But the denouement lacked class. Not a shot was fired, and the main FBI sleuthing seems to have been the diligent checking of a car license number. Mannix would have done it with more style.

Too, there was a letdown when it turned out that the young man wasn't buried with a ten-day supply of air and water, after all. None of the coverage I saw or heard explained how the kidnapers were supposed to have calculated and provided that precise ten-day supply. In the old days, an enterprising reporter would have conned a scientist into figuring out just how much air and water would have been needed and whether it could have been done.

Nevertheless, the Bronfman affair was gratefully received by the press. It even rated a column by Joseph Kraft, whose usual concerns are Big Issues like war and peace and the fate of nations.

And then there was Betty Ford. She gave us plain talk and a touch of sex straight from the White House, rousing millions from the summer lethargy to paroxysms of shock, dismay, admiration and/or fury — all good healthy emotions.

Mrs. Ford, you will recall, said right out on television that her daughter Susan was a big girl and that she, Mrs. Ford, would not be surprised if Susan told her she was having an affair.

The press, print and electronic, climbed aboard as though the First Lady had either torn the nation asunder or bound up its wounds, and nobody knew which. Newsday, a most respectable tabloid on Long Island, devoted most of its front page to the event. Editorial cartoonists happily went to work. An Associated Press reaction story rated a three-column headline in the New York Times. (As of this writing, Joseph Kraft has not commented, however.)

The reaction itself was strident. Mary Whitehouse, billed as a leading British opponent of pornography, got herself into papers all across the country by charging that Mrs. Ford had encouraged promiscuity. Several religious leaders expressed shock. Harriet Van Horne, one of our own, found Morley Safer, who had conducted the interview of Mrs. Ford for CBS's "60 Minutes," guilty of an unseemly invasion of the First Family's privacy. One of Safer's colleagues called the interview "the kind of show business we can do without" and another said the frenetic press pursuit of the story was "a shocking example of over-coverage."

L'affaire Ford isn't over. Just as the letters to the editor prompted by the Safer interview were beginning to tail off, Mrs. Ford broke new ground by hinting in a magazine article that the President, of all people, has a sex life.

Mercifully, though, Labor Day is about to rescue us from the excesses of summer. Now the press can turn its attention to the serious stuff it deals with so expertly and so fully: congressional and presidential groping for solutions to problems of the economy and the energy supply, the minutia of premature presidential politics. Henry Kissinger's next global foray, SALT talks, detente...

Come to think of it, the silly season wasn't so bad. May we meet again, (Tony Pro) and (Tony Jack). Thank you, Mrs. Ford and Morley Safer. Right on, Mary Whitehouse. You all were there when we needed you. (c) 1975, The Washington Post Company

WASHINGTON — Today, August 30, is "Huey P. Long Day" in Louisiana. The former governor and U.S. senator was fatally shot in the state capitol at Baton Rouge 40 years ago — on Sept. 8, 1935.

Brilliant and vulgar. Master politician and buffoon. Reformer and rogue. Huey P. Long of Louisiana was a walking compendium of these and other contradictions. Although the "Kingfish" has been dead for 40 years now and his career in national politics spanned little more than half a decade, he continues to fascinate historians and is revered to this day in his native state.

"What, exactly, was he?" asked Long's biographer, T. Harry Williams. "Dictator, demagogue, or democrat? An incipient fascist, an American boss, a supreme power artist? Whatever the label may be, he was undeniably a great leader, one of the breed who has to move and drive ordinary men, one of those who break the pattern of their time and then shape it anew."

That Long was a born pattern-breaker was obvious from the time he was elected to the state railroad commission in 1918 at the age of 25. In his nine years on that body and its successor, the public service commission, Long seized upon every opportunity to portray himself as the champion of the people against the oil companies, the telephone company, the utilities, and the railroads. His persistent attacks put the companies on the defensive and brought rates down.

Rebuffed in his bid for the governorship in 1924, Long was elected to that office four years later. His campaign slogan was "Every Man a King, But No One Wears a Crown." The new governor made it plain from the start that he could not be bought off by the business interests that had controlled Louisiana politics for years. Long was intent on gathering all power into his own hands, and he managed to do so with surprising ease and speed.

In the process, he delivered on many of his promises to improve the lot of the poor and powerless people of his state. Historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. wrote that "... the people of Louisiana got a state government which did more for them than any other government in Louisiana's history... Schools, hospitals, roads and public services in general were better than ever before."

Long was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1930 and was instrumental in holding southern support for Franklin D. Roosevelt at the Democratic National Convention two years later. But Long soon broke with FDR and alienated most of his fellow senators with his clowning and his long absences in Louisiana, where he continued to act as de facto governor through his hand-picked successor, O. K. Allen.

In 1934 Long announced his Share Our Wealth plan, under which taxes levied on the rich would provide every family in the country with a "homestead" of $5,000 and a guaranteed annual income of between $2,000 and $3,000. It appeared he was gearing up for a bid for the presidency in 1936 or 1940. Indeed, with the aid of a ghostwriter, Long composed a book called "My First Days in the White House." His cabinet, Long disclosed, would include Roosevelt as Navy Secretary, Herbert Hoover as Commerce secretary, and Alfred E. Smith as budget director.

No one can say if Long was serious or facetious, for he was assassinated in September, 1935, shortly before the book was published. His last words were, "God, don't let me die. I have so much to do."

A Matter Of Record

Lincoln, Neb.
On August 26, a day when news of the nearly completed Mideast peace accords rated second-page coverage, the lead story in The Lincoln Star was devoted to an interview with a neo-Nazi agitator.

Like all "loathsome" liberals, I do not deny National Socialists or anyone else the right to express their opinions. But I do question the priorities of supposedly responsible journalists who lend credence to extremist views by framing such stories in blue ink, replete with decorative swastikas, and affording them primacy of place in the morning paper.

I would like to refute the most offensive Nazi tenets advanced in Tuesday's paper.

(1) The racist policy of forced geographical segregation to prevent "mixing the races" is untenable and potentially dangerous. Reputable scientists have repeatedly rejected the idea that there are any pure or unmixed races, despite Nazi claims for the ill-defined Aryan people. As an historical footnote, it is nevertheless important to remember that Hitler's henchmen first rounded up those "racial inferiors" who were destined for the gas chambers and forced them to live in ghettos. Centralization and geographical isolation were an integral part of and necessary step in the Nazi process of extermination.

(2) The notion that the NSDAP was not directly responsible for the ruthless extermination of six million innocent persons belies the overwhelming bulk of physical and historical evidence. To suggest that the Allies rather than the Germans conceived of Dachau or Auschwitz where Jews, Poles, Gypsies, political prisoners and other "undesirables" perished is an insult to the victims, to those who fought the Third Reich and to Star readers' intelligence.

(3) The Nazi propagandist's claims of intellectual and cultural superiority for the "white race" break down even within the confines of the interview. The contradictions inherent in his effort to "Aryanize" Roman, Greek, Indian, Chinese and Japanese civilizations in order to explain their outstanding achievements only serve to point up the emptiness of his pseudo-scientific racial theories.

(4) Aside from the question of their worth, I challenge the notion that there are any "Nazi ideals." It was the very lack of a coherent ideology which formed the cornerstone of Adolf Hitler's fascist regime. And it is precisely this lack of ideals, camouflaged by espousals of bigotry, violence and genocide, which makes the Nazis' legacy to their post-war imitators a singularly impoverished one.

Disgusted Instead Of Proud

Lincoln, Neb.
Is The Lincoln Star so hard up for news that its editors have to give front-page coverage — complete with blue border and swastikas — to a shotgun-toting Nazi who preaches white supremacy and believes that America should have racially "separate and distinct living areas?" One of the greatest strengths of this country is the belief that all people of all races are free and equal. Our Constitution guarantees that equality. I find it amazing that The Star allows this man to preach his un-American and unconstitutional doctrines from its front page. The Star's coverage of this anonymous Nazi is an insult to Black Americans, American Indians, and Americans of Oriental heritage.

It is also an insult to those people who either fought or lost friends and relatives during the second World War. Despite the work of noted historians and the records of the Nuremberg trials, this unnamed Nazi claims that it was the Allies who built the gas ovens in the concentration camps to "justify... Allied propaganda." Perhaps this young man should speak to my parents' friends who lived through the horrors of Auschwitz, Bergen-Belsen and Dachau. Perhaps he should talk to the Americans who risked their lives fighting against the same racist, murderous propaganda he is so proud of spreading today. By giving his unnamed young man such prominent coverage, The Lincoln Star suggests that we should be proud that a "Lincoln Man Is Nazi Propagandist." I'm not proud — I'm disgusted.

Regarding the State Board of Education's Tuesday, Aug. 26, meeting, why not use the terms "assimilation" and "acculturation" instead of "bilingual-bicultural education"? The terms may be different but the meaning is the same: shame, doubtfulness and suffering for having been pushed into the so-called "mainstream" of society.

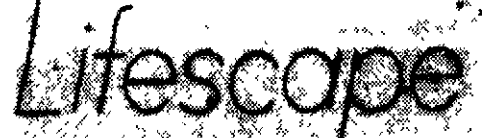

What about the 40,000-plus Spanish-speaking people of Nebraska? What about the 14,000-15,000 native Americans in Nebraska? What is THEIR opinion about being forced to speak English, be educated in English and the traditions of a culture not their own? The Indian and Spanish-speaking of this state do not need bicultural education... we live it. Rather, teach yourself to be bilingual and bicultural.

The Indians of America for centuries have seen "bilingual" and "bicultural" programs as they really are: disguises for forced assimilation and acculturation. It's a regrettable fact that Vietnamese refugees were brought to this country. Once again the American government reveals its paternalistic attitude and policies toward "infidels."

What comes next — Christianizing? Civilizing?

NU Band Has New Game Plan

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

The last "picture show" may well have been witnessed in Memorial Stadium.

Cornhusker Marching Band Director Robert Fought has a new game plan for his first year of wielding the baton.

"We won't have too many picture shows," he promised. Fought has made the precision drill a vital part of the band's performance, coordinating the marching to the music itself and that, in turn with geometric designs.

Just about all that will remain of the marching band of years gone by are some, players, the red and white uniforms and, of course, some of the old familiar tunes.

"It's just the way I would do it," Fought said of his innovations. "It's not just for the sake of change."

But he has gone about changing the band's image much as a new coach would with his undertaking — a pinch of apprehension mixed with a gallon of enthusiasm.

And a heap of work, to boot.

For months, he's been toiling at getting the intricate directions for band members down on paper.

Piles and piles of those "game plans" litter his office.

At first glance, they appear to be nothing more than a batch of scribbles.

X's, O's and arrows, just like those in a football player's playbook, dot the pages of the multi-lined grids. The grids are drawings of the football field, marked off in 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 foot sections. Each section represents four steps. The X's and O's are band members, the arrows, the directions they are to march.

When carried out, the directions on the reams of paper fulfill Fought's theory of combining sight and sound.

"There is no other phenomenon like it when it's done right," the band director said, sounding like a salesman for the precision drill. However, there will, "probably be more obvious mistakes," he predicted. At first, anyway.

But moreover, the new style promises to give football fans "a more impressive, more interesting, better (halftime) show," Fought said.

He dreams up many of his own ideas. But he also borrowed them — from give-and-take discussions with fellow band directors and from routines he sees on television. The new band director, who came to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln a year ago from Syracuse University, watches all the televised football games he can — he's always on the lookout for a new routine and, besides, he loves football as a spectator sport.

Already he's devised a new pregame show.

Just for openers, the band will play the traditional standbys — the national anthem, "Hail Varsity," and "There is No Place Like Nebraska." It will also pay tribute to the visiting school. And Fought has added another tune — "Everything's Coming Up Roses" — to get everything off on a note of optimism from the very start.

The pregame show, complete with the precision drills that lead the band into many a geometric formation, will be a mini-demonstration of the full-length, half-time extravaganza he's planning.

Fought, who teaches saxophone at the university, has one purpose in all this — to "get the fans up," emotionally and physically, "as much as possible."

Before that can happen, they all — band and director — have their work cut out for them.

There are routines to write and routines to get down pat before they can be performed before the 76,000 avid football fans.

The band, coming off a grueling week of nearly 20 practices, has begun one-a-day practices under Fought, a tough drill master.

And Fought continues to map out future halftime performances.

He must keep his nose to the grindstone. "There are five home games in a row, you know," he groaned.

MARCHING BAND PRACTICES ... new formations for pregame show.

Director Adds New Personnel

When the Cornhusker marching band takes to the field this fall, there will be nearly 100 new faces and many additional personnel.

Band Director Robert Fought has instituted a 20-member flag corps modeled after those common to the Big Ten schools and a drum and bugle corps. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln flag corps is to be made up of 20 red-and-white-clad coeds who will escort the band onto the field.

He has also increased the size of the band itself by 32 to 192, compared to 160 last year, not including the 16 reserves.

Fought's rationale for the changes is, one, improved visual impact and, two, increased sound.

The director said he thought last year while he was assisting former band director Jack Snider that the band did not produce enough sound to fill the 76,000 capacity stadium.

There were, after all, 152,000 eardrums soaking up the music.

So he enlarged the band, previously "one of the smallest in the Big Eight."

Other schools currently are paring theirs in size — but to the size the Cornhusker band has grown to, Fought explained.

All the additions have made the UNL

Athletic Department anything but happy, he observed. "We're in hot water with the Athletic Department about increasing our size while they are having a hassle with the economy and the NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic Association)" whose recently-adopted rules have severely restricted the size of the football squad.

More people means more money.

"We just don't feel with the burden of women's athletics we can increase their allotment," said a diplomatic Bob Devaney, UNL athletic director. "We told them they can't have any more money."

The Athletic Department gives the marching band $18,000 a year "to operate the band for all athletic activities," said Snider, director of bands. That is the band's sole support. The marching band gets "no money from the university except for the salaries of teachers" who direct the bands, he added.

From the $18,000 budget, $1,500 goes toward the band uniform fund. The remainder pays the cost of transportation, meals and lodging for the band's annual appearance at a regularly scheduled away game; the cost of arranging, printing and copying the music; plus the repair and replacement of instruments provided band members.

No funds are regularly budgeted for the marching band's appearance at post-season bowl games although transportation, lodging, meals for the musical entourage has run upwards of $25,000 in past years — all from Athletic Department coffers.

More people also means more seats — also provided by the Athletic Department.

With 44 new band members, plus the 20 flag bearers, the cost of the tickets mounts up — at $7.25 (general admission) per game.

Husker Head Coach Tom Osborne is concerned that fewer fans will see the games this year, what with the increased number of band members and the fact that he will have to put some of his football players in the stadium, not on the sidelines.

Another NCAA rule stipulates that only 60 players can suit up for home games. In the past, the Huskers usually had 95 ready for action, Osborne said.

"The Athletic Department has been generous," Snider said. But marching band activities at football and basketball games are, after all athletic-related, he reminded.

It's a two-way street, Snider said. "We contribute a great deal to ... the athletic program" in the form of spirit.

Husband Can't Be All Bad

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a 43-year-old handsome hunk of man with a peach of a disposition. He's a TV repair man and does very well. We have two children, and I must admit he is a good father.

My complaints He can't go to a movie because he hates to sit still for that long. He won't go to church for the same reason. He won't take me dancing because he thinks dancing is foolish. He doesn't like to go out for dinner because it's too expensive. He refuses to go to band concerts because he doesn't like that kind of music.

Camping is too rough and fishing is boring. He WILL go deer hunting, but he won't take me because "men don't take their wives." He won't go for a walk with me because he might miss his favorite TV programs.

The only place he likes to go with me is to bed, and he's very good in that department.

I'm 38 and tired of staying home all the time. Any suggestions? HOMEBOY: Count your blessings. A man with a "peach of a disposition" who is a good father can't be all bad. Build a social life by inviting a few friends in. You don't have to go "out" to have a good time.

DEAR ABBY: My husband makes me feel like such a dummy every time I ask him a question that I've quit asking him. However, right at this moment I am sitting here puzzled and in tears, so I decided to write to you.

My basement is flooded, and I can't do my washing. My husband went on a fishing trip, and he never told me what to do if the water in the basement comes up so high it covers the sump pump.

Should I wade down there and unplug it, or will I get electrocuted?

Opening lead - ace of diamonds.

You get lucky at times, even when you're in a horrible contract, and all you can do under these conditions is thank your lucky stars that someone upstairs is looking out for you.

South bid a heart, to which North responded two clubs, and South reasoned that about all he needed for a grand slam was a five-card club suit headed by the A-Q, or any one of numerous other possible holdings.

Accordingly, he bid four notrump — planning to go to seven if North showed two aces. But North had only one ace and indicated this by bidding five diamonds — which East unwisely doubled.

The double didn't faze South a bit, for he thought that North's strength was far more likely to be in clubs and spades than diamonds, and he therefore bid seven hearts. This contract would surely have failed except that West, influenced by his partner's double, led the ace of diamonds.

It was manna from heaven. Not that the diamond lead gave South his thirteenth trick — the diamond king was now only his twelfth — but it paved the way for a squeeze.

He ruffed the diamond, cashed the ace of trumps, played a club to the ace, discarded a spade on the king of diamonds, played a spade to the ace, and ran five more trumps, producing this position:

Sicilians Try To Force Lady To Drink Potion

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Two Sicilians were arrested and charged with abducting a woman to try to force her to drink a love potion. One of the men was the woman's disgruntled ex-lover, police said.

Officials gave this account: Salvatore Tripoli, 37, and his friend Salvatore Furneri, 24, grabbed Brigida di Monidica, 35, also a Sicilian, in downtown Milan and fled in a car.

Police cut the car off and in Tripoli's pocket found a small bottle with a colorless liquid.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

Psalms 2 and Acts 4:25

The following selections are from the 3rd chapter of Genesis beginning with the 7 verse. "And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked, and they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons. — And the Lord God called unto Adam, and said unto him, Where art thou? And he said, I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself. And he said, Who told thee that thou wast naked? Has thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat? And the man said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat. — And the Lord God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field — Unto the woman He said, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception; in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; and thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee. And unto Adam He said, — Cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life — In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken — Unto Adam also and to his wife did the Lord God make coats of skins, and clothed them. — So He drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden, cherubim, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life.

Exodus 20: 25 & 26. And if thou wilt make me an altar of stone, thou shalt not build it of hewn stone: for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou hast polluted it. Neither shalt thou go up by steps unto mine altar, that thy nakedness be not discovered thereon. The following selections are from the 5th Chapter of Matthew: "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. — Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth. — Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God. —

Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not commit adultery: but I say unto you, That whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart. And if thy right eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell.—It hath been said, Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a writing of divorce; But I say unto you, That whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery: and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery.

The following selections from the 18th chapter of Revelation:—"And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet. For they are the spirits of devils, working miracles, who go forth unto the kings of the earth and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty." "Behold I come as a thief — BEHOLD I COME AS A THIEF. BLESSED IS HE THAT WATCHETH, AND KEEPETH HIS GARMENTS, LEST HE WALK NAKED, AND THEY SEE HIS SHAME."

Psalms 19: 13 & 14: "Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sins; let them not have dominion over me: then shall I be upright, and I shall be innocent from the great transgression. LET THE WORDS OF MY MOUTH, AND THE MEDITATION OF MY HEART, BE ACCEPTABLE IN THY SIGHT, O LORD, MY STRENGTH, AND MY REDEEMER."

Engineers' New Plans For Papio Announced

Omaha (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers' restructured plans for flood protection dams along Papillion Creek in the Omaha area were announced Friday.

The Corps will recommend the construction of Dam 3A, at a site near Bennington, to replace Dams 1 through 9, as authorized in the Papillion Creek and Tributaries Project.

Col. Russell A. Glenn, Omaha District engineer, said the Corps has been considering many alternatives, including three that were presented last June.

Glenn said Dam 3A will provide the same degree of flood control in urbanized areas along the Big Papio as Dams 1 through 9 would have provided.

He said Dam 3A can be constructed for $31.6 million, or $15 million less than Dams 1 through 9. In addition, he said Dam 3A will require the relocation of 18 fewer households than Dams 1 through 9 would have.

Thirty-seven farms or homes would be replaced by Dam 3A, among them would be 20 of the 40 houses in Washington, an incorporated village about five miles northwest of Bennington.

The plan calling for the nine smaller dams would have forced the replacement of 55 farms and homes.

Glenn said mail received since a June 25th meeting to discuss the Dam 3A proposal indicates strong Washington County support for channelization through Douglas and Sarpy Counties. He said the Corps has considered the channel improvement alternative, but has rejected it for three reasons:

- It would provide protection through Omaha, but would adversely affect Sarpy County.
- To carry the channel through Sarpy County would more than double the total cost of the project, making it economically infeasible.
- And, channel improvement would require a local sponsor to provide lands, easements and rights-of-way to operate and maintain the channel after completion and to protect the federal government from damages. No local governmental unit has offered to act as a sponsor, Glenn said.

Eagles' Guitarist Still Nebraska Homebody

Mitchell (AP) — Bass guitarist and singer Randy Meisner of The Eagles, named "Best Group of the Year" by the Rock Music Awards, is still sort of a western Nebraska homebody.

He has "made it," as the rock jargon calls it, but he doesn't "really want to be a star — just a normal person, doing my job."

Eventually he would like to move back to his peach-colored stucco house in Mitchell, a Panhandle town of about 2,000, where his wife and three youngsters live while he is on the road.

"It's real hard being married and not being able to be with my family," he said. "But the end goal will be worth it."

The Eagles also were cited for the "Best Song of the Year," the tune "Best of My Love," and they have sold four gold and two platinum albums, the gold meaning a sale of one million copies and the platinum two million.

Meisner began playing the guitar when he was 9 and at 14 played professionally at Little Moon Lake near here. He met his future wife, Jennifer, at Scottsbluff High School.

He spent about 10 years with various groups, including Rick Nelson.

"I just wasn't getting anywhere," he said. "I was still a backup musician."

State Lets Jobs For Road Work

By United Press International
State Highway Director Tom Doyle Friday announced the awarding of more than $2.5 million in Nebraska highway construction and improvement project contracts.

The bids were 11% lower than advance estimates, Doyle said.

The largest single project was for culverts, guard rail and asphaltic concrete surface course work on an 11.8-mile segment of Hwy. 14 north of Aurora.

Mid-Western Contracting Co., of Omaha; Hills Sand and Gravel Co., of Polk; W.A. Biba Engineering Co. and Biba Co., of Geneva, were the apparently low bidders at $660,000.

The letting, brought the calendar year 1975 total to $67 million, which was $28 million more than for the same period last year.

The projects listed at $100,000 or more were:

- Combined apparent low bids of $519,025 by Hill's Sand and Gravel Co., of Polk, and Western Engineering Co., of Harlan, Iowa, for 9.9 miles of guard rail and asphaltic concrete surface course work on Hwy. 21 between Broken Bow and Oconto.
- An apparent low bid of $346,139 by Flinn Paving Co., Inc., of Omaha, for 8 miles of asphaltic concrete surface course work at eight locations in Douglas County.
- An apparent low bid of $154,167 by L.J. Vontz Construction Co., of Hastings, for 2.6 miles of culvert and asphaltic concrete surface course work south of Pauline in Adams County.
- An apparent low bid of $125,407 by Kenneth Boedeker, Landscape, of Higginsville, Mo., for landscaping on Interstate 80 from Big Springs to North Platte.
- An apparent low bid of $120,786 by Paulsen Building & Supply, Inc. of Cozad, for bridge work at Holbrook north and west in Gosper County.
- An apparent low bid of $108,240 by J.F. Edwards Construction Co., of Geneseo, Ill., for lighting work on Interstate 80 from Lincoln to Omaha in Sarpy County.

Death Toll Raised By 4

By The Associated Press
Four more names were added Friday to the 1975 Nebraska fatality toll.

Mrs. Shirley J. Schwantes, 42, of Plattsmouth died from injuries she suffered in a two-motorcycle collision Aug. 20. Her motorcycle was struck from the rear while making a right turn in a Plattsmouth intersection.

The death of Rose Ann Pielstick, of York, who died July 25 after being involved in an unusual accident July 19, has been counted as a traffic fatality.

The State Patrol said Mrs. Pielstick, 26, was riding in a car driven by her husband, Terry, 28.

The Patrol said the Sherman County attorney's office determined that she fell from the car on Neb. 58 west of Boelus.

The woman's husband took her to a hospital and after being transferred, she died July 25.

Claudina Baxter, 27, of Winnebago, died early Friday morning in a one-vehicle accident 4.5 miles south of Macy.

More Cars Exported
Tokyo (AP) — Japan exported 244,734 motor vehicles in July, up 8.6% from June but down 1.1% from a year earlier, the Japan Automobile Manufacturer's Association said.

Loup City, Dawson Students Cited

Grand Island (UPI) — Rose Kowalski of Loup City and Lorinda Hilton of Dawson Friday were awarded $500 scholarships by the Hall County Livestock Improvement Association. The two are students at the Nebraska School of Technical Agriculture in Curtis. Miss Kowalski and Miss Hilton will complete their studies at Curtis next spring and will become certified animal technicians.

Arson Suspected In Norfolk Fires
Norfolk (UPI) — Authorities here were investigating three cases of suspected arson at three construction sites. One fire was set in a residential area and two in the business district, but no major damage resulted, authorities said. Juveniles were suspected of being responsible for setting the blazes, officers related.

Soybean Group Sets Meeting
The Nebraska Soybean Development, Utilization and Marketing Board will hold a regular meeting Sept. 24 at the state Agriculture Department's conference room. The meeting was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

Vets Hospital To Mark 25th Year
Grand Island (UPI) — The first week in September has been designated for the observance of the 25th anniversary of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Grand Island. Special activities and programs have been planned for the patients during the week, with the week highlighted by a dinner Friday.

Teenagers Placed On Probation
Omaha (AP) — Two teenagers convicted of assault and battery in an incident involving an off-duty policeman have been placed on two years' probation by District Court Judge Donald Hamilton. Brett Anderson, 18, was found guilty last February of the charge. Scott Steingraber, 19, was found guilty of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, a felony. However, Judge Hamilton granted a defense motion for a new trial and Steingraber subsequently pleaded no contest to assault and battery. Both were charged following an incident in which off-duty policeman Sam John said he was kicked and beaten.

Lewis Would 'Consider' Congress

By The Associated Press
State Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook carefully qualifies his remarks, but nevertheless acknowledges that under the right circumstances "I would carefully and definitely consider" running for Congress in the 3rd District.

Lewis has been a frequent newsmaker in recent months because of his criticism of the Nebraska Public Power District. He chairs a legislative subcommittee which is looking into public power in Nebraska.

However, Lewis said he didn't think public power would be an issue in any coming congressional races "because I certainly hope that the legislature accomplishes anything that needs to be done before the next election."

Lewis acknowledges that any work he might do to improve the public power system would not hurt his image in a campaign, but quickly adds that "I was looking into public power years ago—long before anyone ever talked to me about running for Congress."

There is one major factor in any Lewis decision: He flatly states he will not run for Congress if Don Blank seeks the Republican nomination again. The McCook dentist unsuccessfully sought the nomination in 1974, losing to Mrs. Virginia Smith, who went on to capture the House seat.

"My first concern right now is with the public power situation and not with Congress, but the possibility, as I have explained it, is there," Lewis said.

The legislature's Executive Board has authorized the Lewis

State Insurance Unit To Rule On Texas Bid

E. Benjamin Nelson, director of the State Insurance Department, said Friday his office will rule within 10 days on the qualifications of a Texas firm to do business in Nebraska.

The firm, Edward Sampson, Inc., of Fort Worth, Tex., has acquired 44 per cent stock control of Lincoln Life and Casualty Co., headquartered in Lincoln.

He said his department's investigation included "looking into the business reputation of those involved" in Sampson.

Nelson said that Lincoln Life and Casualty Company's present operations are unaffected while his office completes its investigation of Edward Sampson, Inc.

Group To Ask Hearing On Rate Hike By NPPD

Dil Blatchford, general manager of the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative, said Friday his group would request a formal hearing on wholesale power rate increases proposed by the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD).

Blatchford said his group and other NPPD wholesale customers have questions about the proposed NPPD rate hike, which is expected to be in excess of 50%.

Blenn Schmieding, general manager of the Norris Public Power District, said he was not convinced that NPPD was allocating its costs fairly between its retail and wholesale customers.

Wholesale customers have 30 days to protest the cost analysis approved by NPPD this week.

Lincoln Electric System officials estimated the NPPD rate increase would force a 15% hike in retail electric bills in the Capital City.

Lowans Identify Drowning Victim As Omaha Man

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — The Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation and the Pottawattamie County sheriff's office have identified the body of a man found in the Missouri River last Monday.

The body was found south of Council Bluffs, on the Iowa side of the river across from Bellevue.

Sheriff Lynn Ford Friday identified the dead man as John R. Wright, 50, of Omaha.

Ford said Wright was last seen alive last Sunday, and that the cause of Wright's death has not been determined.

Ford said there is no indication of foul play, but that the investigation into the death is continuing.

Identification was made through fingerprints, Ford said.

Horticulturist Says Rainfall 'Spotty'

Accumulated precipitation for Nebraska from March 1 to August 8 was spotty, ranging from 7 to 23 inches at various locations, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln agricultural climatologist.

Dr. Ralph Neild, professor of horticulture, cooperating with the Nebraska Section of the National Weather Forecast Service, reported in his Ag. Weather Service Note No. 11 that the state as a whole received slightly less than normal precipitation during the period.

These weather notes, started this season, go to county agents, state offices and others interested in agriculture, Neild said.

UNL Ag Club Nation's First For 3rd Year

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Agronomy Club is first in the nation for the third year in a row. It is the first time in the history of the American Society of Agronomy (ASA) that a student club from the same university has achieved this record.

Announcement of the victory in competition with clubs from other universities around the country was received Friday by phone from Knoxville, Tenn., where the ASA is in session.

Bill Siefert of Bennet, a junior in agronomy, placed third in the national ASA student essay contest with his essay on "Herbicide: A New Weed Control Tool for Irrigated Crop Production." Siefert, who is membership chairman of the Student Activities Section of ASA, also placed third in the national speech contest. His speech was developed around the reasoning that expanded agronomic research resulting in greater crop production should be financed rather than expending funds for emergency or short run food programs.

Omaha (AP) — Two weeks ago, a 19-foot python was stolen or released from his glass cage at Omaha's Henry Doorly Zoo — a day later it was found on a road near the zoo.

The snake had been run over, and efforts to save its life were in vain.

Dr. Lee Simmons, zoo director, said it could take as much as two to three years to replace the specimen, but the zoo now has a new python, and it may be bigger than his predecessor — zoo officials are not exactly sure yet.

The new snake is a gift to the zoo from Mrs. Petra Johnson of Omaha, whose husband, Air Force 3. Sgt. Stephen Johnson, died July 14 in an Omaha traffic mishap.

Mrs. Johnson said she read stories about the demise of the zoo's old python, Caduceus, and decided to buy the zoo a new python as a way to remember her husband, and to encourage good relationships between other fathers and sons.

"The week before Stephen was killed, we were at the zoo," said Mrs. Johnson.

She said her son, Jeffrey, "just loves snakes."

"He and his father spent a lot of time in front of the glass cage where the other python was," Mrs. Johnson said, "Jeff must have had a thousand questions."

The new python was ordered from a California animal dealer, and arrived at the zoo late Wednesday.

The honor of naming the new snake went to Mrs. Johnson.

"I've picked out Sir because of my husband's military tradition, and I can't think of anything better to say when you're approaching a 20-foot snake," said Mrs. Johnson.

Jeff, who will celebrate his 10th birthday Sept. 4, was on hand at the zoo when Simmons and some aides decided to measure Sir. He even bought a tape measure especially for the job.

But, as he watched Simmons and 13 other workers try to stretch the giant reptile out to its full length, Jeff said, "No way." He then petted the big snake and smiled.

Despite the efforts of the handlers, the question of the snake's length is still unanswered.

Measurements range from 19-feet, 4-inches to 19-feet, 8-inches.

"I'm sure the snake is over 20 feet and may be close to 21," said Simmons happily.

Omaha Sinfonia Plan Cancelled

Omaha (AP) — A dispute between the Omaha Symphony Association and orchestra musicians has led to the cancellation of the symphony's proposed Sinfonia group, the orchestra's general manager said Friday.

Manager Thomas Gerdorn said plans for the 25-member group, 15 of whom would be the orchestra's first chair players, were cancelled because "we were not able to negotiate satisfactory procedures for selecting and employing musicians in the Sinfonia after lengthy talks with the orchestra committee and the local union."

Gerdorn's statement was made in a letter to ticket holders announcing cancellation of a five-concert Sinfonia series scheduled at Joslyn Art Museum beginning in November.

In plans announced earlier this year by symphony officials, the Sinfonia was to be a group composed mostly of full time professional musicians whose abilities would upgrade the quality of the entire orchestra.

Despite cancellation of the Sinfonia plans, a dispute between the symphony association and the Omaha Musicians Association, a union representing the orchestra players, remains unresolved.

In May, the union placed the symphony association on its "unfair" list, barring union musicians from playing for the orchestra until the action is lifted.

High Court May Review Taped Booking By Police

Gering (AP) — The use of tape recorded booking procedures at police stations may come under review by the Nebraska Supreme Court as a result of a ruling Thursday by a Scotts Bluff District Court judge.

Judge Alfred Kortum affirmed a guilty verdict and sentence by a county court in which the defendant said his constitutional rights were violated last spring by the use of a recorded booking procedure at the Scottsbluff police station.

The defendant, Donald Lynch, 41, of Scottsbluff, was convicted of driving while intoxicated, refusing alcohol tests, resisting arrest and assaulting a Scottsbluff policeman.

He was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, fined and placed on probation. He later appealed to the District Court. His attorney argued that the tape recorded booking procedure which was played for a county court jury at Lynch's trial constituted an invasion of Lynch's privacy and that the punishment was excessive.

Key points, according to the attorney, included whether the tape recording was a confession or a violation of a person's right against self-incrimination and whether the tape was altered in any way.

This was the first tape recording of a booking procedure used in Scotts Bluff County.

Grain Sale Said Possible

Minden (UPI) — Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said Thursday night he wouldn't be at all surprised to see U.S. grain sold to Russia and also said he opposes use of American forces in keeping peace in the Mideast.

Curtis made the comments during a dinner for news media representatives.

"I don't know of any specific plan, but I wouldn't be surprised if the Russians bought corn," the senator said. However, he said they would be private instead of government sales.

On Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's Mideast peace effort, Curtis said he hopes Kissinger is successful in reaching an agreement. But he said he hopes that success is not based on using American troops as a peace-keeping force.

Curtis also said that he has written President Gerald Ford regarding the decontrol of oil prices. He said he told the President he should try to work with Congress for a gradual decontrol accompanied by imposition of a windfall profit tax.

Kalb Will Be Next Kansas Revenue Head

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Gov. Robert F. Bennett announced Friday that Floyd Kent Kalb will succeed James T. McDonald as state secretary of revenue effective Sept. 17.

Kalb, 36, was appointed the department's chief legal counsel last June 3 and at that time said it was with the understanding he would eventually succeed McDonald.

However, Bennett has steadfastly denied Kalb was brought back to Kansas from Nebraska for the purpose of replacing McDonald. The governor had said that was a possibility, but not necessarily so.

Kalb is a native of Baldwin City, Kan., with bachelor and law degrees from the University of Kansas.

He was an attorney in the Kansas Revenue Department after his 1964 graduation from the K.U. Law School, then was an attorney for the Kansas Highway Commission before joining the Nebraska Revenue Department as its chief attorney in 1967 when former Democratic Gov. Robert B. Docking took office.

Schreier, NYR Argue Over Expense Accounts

Omaha (AP) — When the executive committee of the Nebraska Young Republicans (NYR) meets Sept. 6, it will take up a motion to censure the group's state treasurer, Phil Schreier.

Schreier said he is under fire for refusing to pay travel expense accounts turned in by NYR Chairman Phil Buswell, and three other members of the organization, including former State Sen. Gerald Stromer of Kearney.

In a memorandum to party officials, Schreier said the four submitted expense accounts, and "demanded payment for alleged expenses incurred in traveling to Indianapolis, Ind., for the national Young Republicans meeting."

Schreier said the expense accounts were not accompanied by "any receipts to justify the amounts claimed."

Schreier said he will attend the executive committee meeting in Columbus to defend his stand.

Schreier said his main objection to the claims is that "they went in two cars and two of them submitted expense claims for air fares."

He said Buswell and Dianne Desler of Omaha traveled to Indianapolis with Stromer in Stromer's car.

But, Schreier said Buswell turned in an expense about which listed travel "based on air fare," and Miss Desler turned in an expense account which listed air fare.

Buswell confirmed that the censure motion is on the agenda, but said the agenda is confidential, and may be changed.

THINK SAFETY...
...Think Sunday

We can't miss them — these signs along the intersections of our streets. They protect our school children from physical harm. We see the sign . . . and slow down.

Most of us are deeply concerned about the safety of our youngsters . . . and these signs can be a reminder of a further obligation our society has to its youth. There are dangers in life for which only religious training and faith can prepare us.

Boys and girls approaching maturity deserve the spiritual protection which Christian education provides.

Whenever you approach a school crossing, slow down! But, just don't think safety — think SUNDAY!

New Home, Offensive Returnees Bolster Iowa State Spirits

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Ames, Ia. — Iowa State has had only one winning football season since 1965, but that fact hasn't dampened the enthusiasm of the team coach Earle Bruce is preparing for the 1975 season.

Two reasons have been cited for the positive attitude of the Cyclones — a new stadium complete with adjoining dressing rooms, meeting rooms and coaches offices, plus the return of virtually all of last season's starting offensive team.

Those things might not be enough, however, to raise Iowa State into the first division of the Big Eight Conference because of some big holes to be filled on defense.

"We are right on schedule offensively," Bruce told visiting

Big Eight Skywriters Friday. "But, like everyone else in the conference, we are concerned about the linebacker positions and we have a somewhat inexperienced secondary. Our front five, however, will be good."

Despite the offensive veterans, there are questions still to be answered in the running back and offensive line area.

Quarterback Question
There is a question even at quarterback although the Cyclones are three deep there with experienced players. None of the three has "jumped out" and declared himself No. 1. Bruce hopes this happens in Saturday's scrimmage in the new stadium.

"Wayne Stanley has become more mature and a little better team leader," Bruce said. "He's our best passer and if we throw a lot to our good receivers he'll be playing a lot. He's having his best year. He has more confidence and knows what he wants to do."

Buddy Hardeman, who missed last season after suffering a knee injury in the opening game, has fully recovered from surgery and he's a good runner. Tom Mason also is experienced and is both a good runner and a passer."

Bruce says quarterback is the strongest position on the team. "The position has stabilized a little bit and we have so much depth," he said. "I'm going to pick the one who puts the team in the end zone most times in Saturday's scrimmage."

Scoring has been a Cyclone problem during Bruce's two seasons, both which ended with 4-7 records. They had two three-point losses in 1973 and two three-point and one two-point losses last year.

Williams Praised

At the running back position, Iowa State has come up with junior Mike Williams to replace all-time Cyclone rusher Mike Strachan. ISU fans got to see what he could do last year when he filled in for the injured Strachan against Kansas State and rushed for 162 yards in 26 carries.

"I would never knock Strachan," Bruce said. "He played with bad legs most of last year, but Williams has better breakaway speed than Strachan. He's a good blocker, a tough-nose kid who runs hard and has 4.6 speed in the 40. He can do it all."

The Cyclones might have come up with the recruiting prize of the Big Eight when they landed 5-10, 180-pound Dexter Green, a tailback from Woodbridge, Va.

"Dexter Green is something, fellows, he's something," Bruce said when asked where he might fit in 1975 plans. "I don't want to put pressure on a freshman, but he has made four or five great runs out here in practice. I hope he's as good as we think he is."

Bruce described Green as a runner with quick, little feet, not a big, massive kid, instead a little kid with big legs. "When he's undressed he looks like an athlete," Bruce said. "He makes beautiful cuts. He's blessed with that stuff you can't coach. He makes the right moves at the right time."

Receivers Good

Green won't necessarily start "but he's going to play a lot," Bruce said. "Not many are good enough to knock Mike Williams out because he has experience."

Iowa State has good receivers, headed by Luther Blue, who also is an excellent kickoff and punt returner. He will be used as a runner from a flanker spot. Another is Fory Smith, a heady player with experience.

The ISU defense is relatively untested because of the losses of All-American safety Barry Hill, linebacker Brad Storm, tackle Rick Howe and end Andre Roundtree.

The front five is headed by the Steinsrud brothers, tackle Mike (6-4, 270) and Middle guard Maynard (6-3, 228) and end Ray King (6-4, 219), one of the co-captains.

In the secondary, Tony Hawkins and Sy Bassett are returning starters. "We think Hawkins is a super athlete," Bruce said of his returning corner back. "Bassett started at rover for a year ago and he has shown what experience can do for a player in pass coverage and run support."

ISU will find out early what's in store when it opens at UCLA on Sept. 13.

Cooper Peps Red Sox Win

By The Associated Press

Cecil Cooper had four hits, including his 12th home run, and the Boston Red Sox whipped Oakland 6-1 Friday night in a possible preview of the American League playoffs.

Cooper led off the first inning with a double off the wall in left-center and eventually scored on a passed ball. He started the third with a drive into the A's bullpen in right and later beat out a bunt and added another double.

Staked to a 4-0 lead in the first three innings, veteran Rick Wise equaled a career high with his 17th victory.

The victory enabled the Red Sox to widen their AL East lead to 7½ games over Baltimore. The A's remained 7½ ahead of Kansas City in the West.

In the rest of the AL, California routed Detroit 8-1, Chicago defeated Baltimore 4-2, New York beat Kansas City 6-5 in 10 innings, Milwaukee stamped past Texas 13-1 and Cleveland downed Minnesota 9-6.

In early National League action, Cincinnati beat St. Louis 6-2 and Chicago defeated Atlanta.

Houston at Pittsburgh was rained out.

Frank Tanana fired a seven-hitter and fanned nine to run his major league leading strikeout total to 206 in the Angels' victory over Detroit. California scored three runs in the fourth inning, two on a double by John Balaz, and Dave Collins added a two-run homer.

Ken Henderson hit two homers and Deron Johnson and Bob Coluccio hit one apiece to give Jim Kaat his 19th victory as the White Sox defeated Baltimore. Thurman Munson raced home from third on a wide throw by Kansas City second baseman Cookie Rojas in the 10th inning, giving the Yankees their victory over the Royals.

Jim Colburn's five-hitter, Bill Sharp's two-run triple in a three-run fourth inning and Bob Sheldon's two-run single in a six-run ninth enabled the Brewers to breeze past Texas. Rick Manning hit a grand-slam homer in the eighth inning to carry Cleveland over the Twins.

Cesar Geronimo's tie-breaking homer, a three-run clout in the fourth inning, boosted the Reds over St. Louis. Andy Thornton blasted a two-run homer and a triple and Jose Cardenal hit a solo homer to lead the Cubs past Atlanta.

Some Seeds Upset, Superstars Win Easy

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)

For five of the seeded men the 1975 U.S. Open Tennis Championships ended unexpectedly early, but for Jimmy Connors and the other tennis superstars Friday was just another workday as they registered routine victories.

With a record 16,299 fans on the grounds, the surprises came thick and fast on a warm, overcast day. Out went Tom Okker, the sixth seed who was runnerup in the 1968 tourney. Out went Tony Roche, the seventh pick who lost back-to-back finals here in 1969-70 and who was a semifinalist at Wimbledon this past July.

Also crashing were John Alexander, the 12th pick; Vitas Gerulaitis, the 14th seed from Howard Beach, N.Y., who was the most valuable player in the recent World Team Tennis playoffs, and 16th choice Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex.

But while the lower seeds saw their hopes die on the unfriendly gray clay courts, the top men in the draw of 128 made untroubled progress. Most of them looked good doing so.

Connors, the top seed and the defending champion, reeled off 10 straight games in defeating British lefty Roger Taylor, 6-2, 6-0; Manuel Orantes of Spain, the third choice, defeated Saschi Menon of India, 6-2, 6-2; Wimbledon champion Arthur Ashe blunted the big guns of the Indian, Vijay Amritraj, 6-3, 6-1; Bjorn Borg of Sweden, the 1972 champion, defeated Australia's Allan Stone, 6-2, 6-3.

Okker lost 6-3, 6-4 to Balazs Taroczy of Hungary; Roche was dumped 6-0, 6-2, by Chilean Davis Cup star Jaime Fillol; Alexander crashed 6-1, 7-6 to Rhodesia's Andrew Pattison; Gerulaitis lost a 7-6, 7-5 heartstopper to French Davis Cupper Francois Jauffret, while Richey never was in his match with Eddie Dibbs, North Miami Beach, Fla., losing 6-1, 6-0.

There was woe for the women, too.

Francois Durr, the 7th seed, fell 6-3, 6-0 to Kerry Melville Reid, the 1973 runnerup, while 8th-seeded Julie Heldman, the Wightman Cup captain and TV commentator, was defeated 6-4, 6-1 by Kazuko Kawamatsu of Japan.

Other male seeds to advance were two-time champ Rod Laver, Roscoe Tanner, Raul Ramirez, Harold Solomon and Jan Kodes.

The second-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina was expected to defeat Alvaro Betancur in a

Nebraska Scrimmage Cancelled

By United Press International

Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne Friday postponed a preseason intrasquad scrimmage set for Saturday due to injuries and illnesses to 38 players.

Team trainer Paul Schneider said, "We want a few more days to give all our ailing a chance to heal. We're so short of I-backs anyway we couldn't have had a good picture of the team's efforts."

A total of 18 players missed practice Thursday and a total of 38 were listed as hurt or sick. The list was reduced to about 25 to 30 on Friday.

I-backs Monte Anthony and John O'Leary returned to action Friday, but Anthony was slowed by a leg injury and O'Leary was weak from a bout with the flu. The other I-backs, Dave Gillespie and Byron Stewart, missed practice a second day because of leg injuries.

Temporarily lost during the workout were No. 1 right guard Dan Miller and No. 1 left tackle Bob Lingenfelter, who suffered knee strains. Schneider said their injuries were not considered serious.

Fair Attracts Top Drivers

By RANDY YORK

Nine of the top 10 drivers in the IMCA sprint car point standings will compete in the Nebraska State Fair races Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Leading the charge to the ½-mile dirt oval is defending champion Bill Utz of Sedalia, Mo. He won two of the three Nebraska State Fair features last year and has four victories to his credit this season.

Pressuring Utz in his bid for the IMCA crown is Jan Opperman of Knoxon, Mont. Opperman, buoyed by a big win at the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia last weekend, closed within 125 points of Utz to bolt into championship contention.

Opperman, the self-styled racing hippie and former Beaver Crossing resident, believes there's a small advantage to being the challenger. "Utz will have to be more wary of me," he says.

"He'll have to run hard if he wants to regain the championship," adds Opperman. "He can't afford one small mistake."

Opperman has won five IMCA feature races this season.

Sedalia Trouble

Utz could have been in commanding position if he had avoided trouble at Sedalia. He was running second after 37 laps of a 50-lap feature when his car ran out of fuel. He did not restart.

Roger Rager, formerly of Lincoln and now of Mound, Minn., has moved from No. 7 in the IMCA point standings to No. 3 by virtue of his second place finish at Sedalia.

Des Moines' Ralph Blackett, who was leading the point standings until he was injured in a race at the Missouri State Fair two weeks ago, now ranks No. 4. He's the only member of the top 10 not scheduled to compete in Lincoln.

Time trials are scheduled at the State Fairgrounds Saturday and Monday only at 1 p.m. Warmups are set for Sunday at 1 p.m. Regular competition begins all three days at 2 p.m.

IMCA point standings are based on county and state fair races in Florida, Kansas, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska.

Last year's Nebraska sprint car races drew 55 cars with the top 24 in time trials qualifying for three 8-car heat races and the next six alternates.

Eagle to Race

Eagle Raceway also announced it will host sprint car competition over the Labor Day weekend. Owner Harvey Kropp will offer a combined $5,500 purse for racing Sunday and Monday nights.

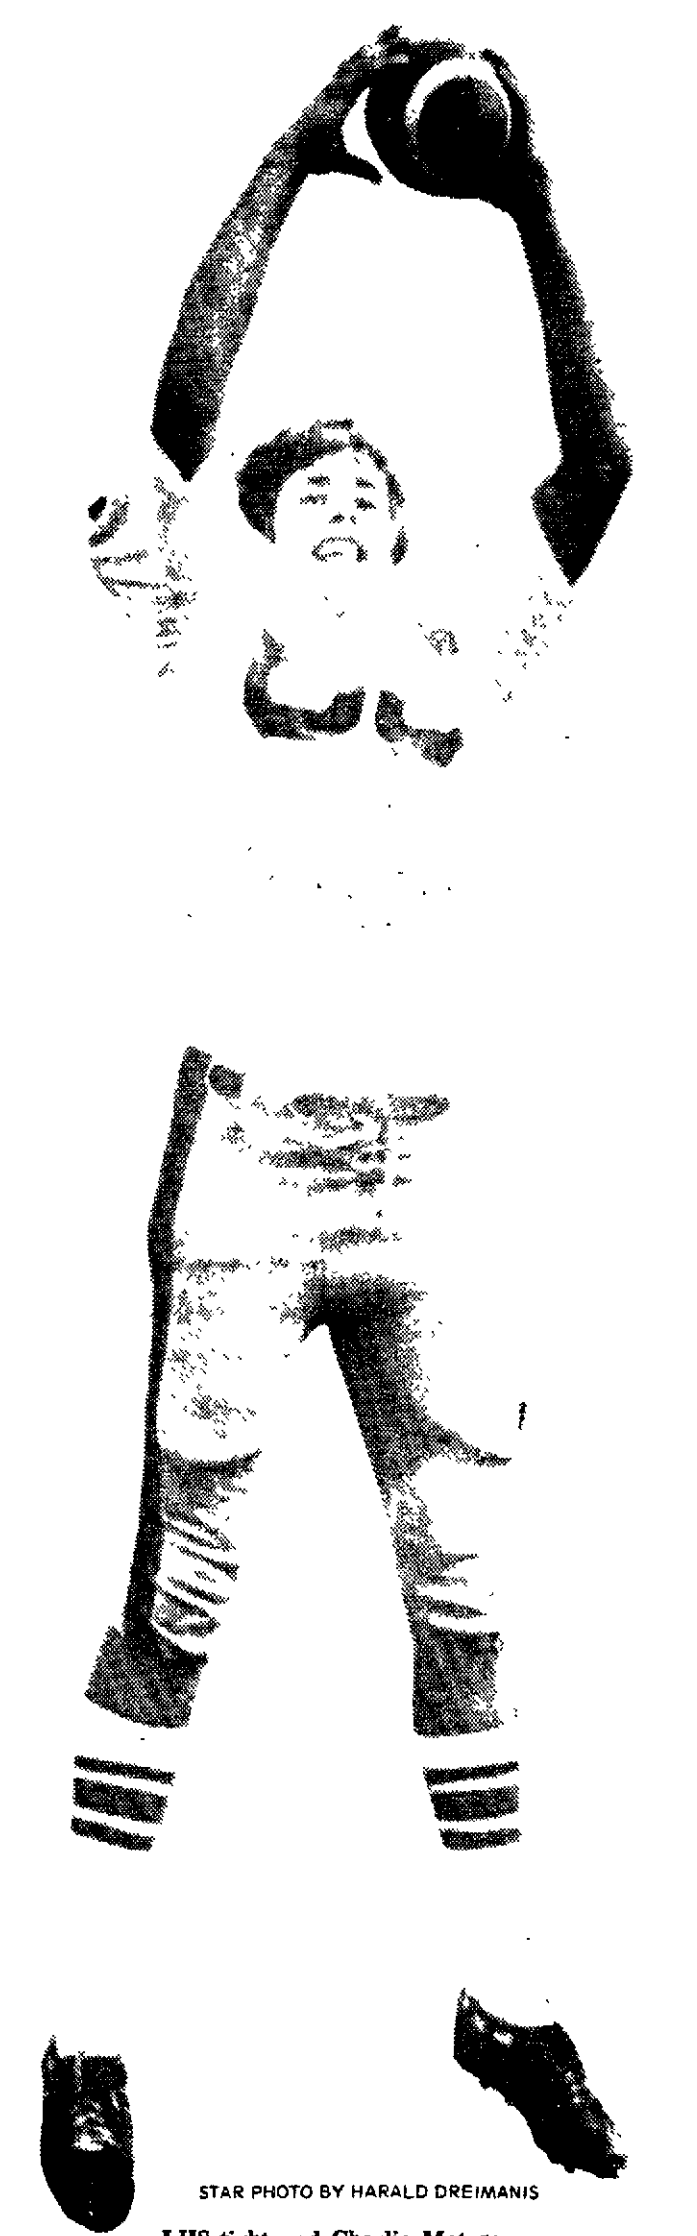

Time trials start at 7 p.m. Sunday and will carry over to Monday night's national one-third mile dirt track championship program. Monday's feature winner will earn $750, according to Kropp.

Kropp is expecting a big field of cars, including such drivers as Rager, Dick Sutcliffe, Mike Thomas, Jeff Rice, Schmidt, Bill Robertson, Don Maxwell, Gary Dunkle and Wayne Holz.

Midwest Speedway also will host holiday racing with late model and hobby stocks running Sunday and Monday, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Omaha Pair Favorites In Closed Tennis Meet

By CHUCK SINCLAIR

Omaha's Dave Weber and Harry Taylor defied the law of averages when both reached the 35 singles finals in the National Public Parks tennis tournament two weeks ago in Minneapolis.

"It's highly unlikely that two from the same town would end up in the finals like that in a national event," said Taylor who lost to Weber in the finals. "In fact they said they thought it was the first time it's ever happened."

Being the two top singles entries in their division, it was logical that if the two were paired up, they should win the doubles title.

They did.

Both Weber, a tennis pro at Omaha's Racquet Club, and Taylor, a curator for Joslyn Art Museum, are entered in both the open singles and doubles for the start of the Nebraska Closed Tennis Tournament at Woods Park Tennis Center Saturday.

Weber Top-Seeded

Weber drew top seed in the men's open while Taylor was seeded fourth behind defending champion Dan Grossman of Omaha and Omaha City champion John McCabe.

The two are expected to gain the No. 1 seed in the men's doubles.

Taylor is bypassing competition in the 35-year-old division to concentrate on the singles, doubles and father and son division with his boy H. C., a nine-year-old who Taylor says "stands net high."

As one of the top seeded men, Taylor's using the Nebraska event for a primer for another national championship event, the National Hard Courts in Las Vegas, Nev.

"To get ready for the nationals, you've got to play in the open divisions around your state for the competition," Taylor said. "There are reasons for having age brackets, but you've got to take advantage of the situation."

Taylor sees this year's Nebraska Closed event as outstanding.

Noa Seeds Good

"Not only are the seeded players good, but there are a lot of really good players that aren't seeded," Taylor said. "Usually in the first round of a singles tournament, it's pretty easy for the seeded players, but there will be some that stub their toes through this one."

"Hopefully, all the other good players are in the other first round bracket," Taylor joked.

The first round of the men's singles is scheduled to begin before 9 a.m. Saturday morning and run through Monday, with players asked to check in by 8:30 a.m.

Tournament director Joy Rodenberg is expecting more than 175 entrants in the 16 different divisions with doubles entries being accepted up until noon on Saturday and play beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Starting Information

Any players needing starting information may call the Woods Tennis Center after 1 p.m. Friday, and if rain interrupts play, information will be relayed by KFAB radio in Omaha and KLMS in Lincoln.

Here are the open singles seedings:

- Men's — 1. Dave Weber, Omaha; 2. Dan Grossman, Omaha; 3. John McCabe, Omaha; 4. Harry Taylor, Omaha; 5. Sig Garnett, Lincoln; 6. Bill Roach, Beatrice; 7. Dan Sioboth, Omaha; 8. Rick Breunig, Omaha.

- Women's — 1. Simi Pell, Omaha; 2. Joyce McKiever, Lincoln; 3. Isabel Whitney, Omaha; 4. Kathy Welsh, Omaha.

Ball Explains 'Hard Choice'

One of a Series

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Editor
Jerry Ball admits "it was the hardest thing I had to do in my whole life."

The Lincoln High football coach cut 11 seniors, who had been with the Links' football program two years.

"I know it's sad not to be able to finish out your senior year," Ball says, "but for the first time, we have more than three sophomores capable of playing varsity football."

"We've got 20 underclassmen on our varsity roster," he notes, "but we don't carry anyone unless we feel they can play for us."

"We went through challenges," Ball says, "and some sophomores came up and knocked some seniors out. We feel we have 35 very capable people."

Perhaps the best all-around athlete among them is quarterback-fullback-defensive end-punter-kicker John Beaver.

Ball believes Beaver's value as a kicker is immeasurable. "I've never seen a better high school punter," he says. "The only one he reminds me of is John Sanders at Grand Island in 1964."

Last season, Beaver averaged 38.8 yards for 40 punts. It probably would have been a better than 40-yard average without two blocked punts figured in.

"He had 16 punts well over 40 yards and eight over 50 yards," notes Ball. "He's also got pretty good range as a field goal kicker, but we haven't worked on that yet this fall."

Sprained Ankle

Beaver, a talented all-around athlete who also starts at quarterback and defensive end, was hampered Thursday after spraining the ankle on his left kicking foot.

"I kicked a lot this summer," says Beaver, adding he has confidence in kicking field goals up to 45 yards. "I hope I get the chance to see if I can do it in a game."

Right now, Ball is more concerned with Beaver's value as a punter. "You can say what you want about a left-footed kicker, but he puts a different spin on the ball," insists the Lincoln High coach.

"Our whole team has taken a lot of pride in the punting game," adds Ball. "Last year, we had the speed to go down under the punt and minimize a return. We're working very hard to get the same results this year."

Ball admits "I have no idea how to teach some of the things John accomplishes as a punter, but he also has that knack for kicking away from a person fielding the punt. I know we can't field his kicks in practice."

Also Co-Captain

Beaver, the state gold medalist in the discus last spring, also is an excellent leader, according to Ball.

In a vote this week, teammates elected Beaver and tackle Bryan Spale co-captains for 1975.

"John has sort of been biding his time. Now it's his turn," Ball says in reference to Beaver moving into the spotlight. "All our seniors feel it's their turn. No one's looking at the past, just the future."

Ball believes the strongest position on the team may be defensive end with Beaver (6-2, 202) and senior veteran Doug Larkins (6-0, 190) protecting the flanks.

For the first time, Ball also has confidence in the Links' overall ability to pass.

"I'm optimistic as all get out," admits Ball. "There is improvement with our whole team. And for the first time, we have more than a couple sophomores capable of playing."

Probable Starters

The Links' probable starting lineups for their opener at Grand Island next Friday includes:

Offense — Beaver, quarterback, fullback, unsettled among five candidates; Uduak Uduofia, tailback; Gary Hart, wingback; Mike Smith, split end; Charlie Metzger, tight end; Spale and David Tivis, tackles; Larkins and Dan Vontz, guards; Randy Hitz or Mike Scanlon, center.

Defense — Beaver and Larkins, ends; Spale and Metzger, tackles; Scanlon or Vontz, middle guard; linebackers unsettled among five candidates; Smith, monster; Uduofia, Bob McCullough or Hart, cornerbacks; Uduofia or Greg Quarells, safety.

Leader North Ties Mark

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Comparative newcomer Andy North fired a record-equaling nine-hole 27 and an eight-under-par 63 Friday to take the first-round lead in the B.C. Open Golf Tournament.

His 63, a competitive course record at the 6,815-yard, par-37-34-71 En-Joe Golf Course, put him three strokes ahead of Butch Baird, George Burns III and Don Iverson, each with 66.

Defending champion Richie Karl, the host pro, with a 67, was bracketed with Howard Twitty and Bob Shaw.

Eight players were knotted at 68, while 14 turned in 69s. Among those two under par were aging Sam Snead and Dave Stockton, who lost to Al Geiberger in a sudden-death playoff for the Tournament Players Championship last Sunday.

Thirteen were at 70. Hubert Green, the 1973 B.C. champion, turned in a par 71, playing in a steady rain all the way, as did the rest of the late starters. Lightning interrupted play for 43 minutes and the tail-enders finished in near-darkness.

North, a three-time All-American golfer at the University of Florida, said he was aware that he was en route to the 27 and wanted to break the record set by Mike Souchak in the 1955 Texas Open.

He went to the 17th tee needing only five strokes—birdies on the 17th and 18th—for a 26. "I got excited at 17 and tried too much to make a 17-foot putt," he said. "I pulled it. I knew 26 would be the lowest nine holes ever."

He parred the 17th and birdied No. 18 with a 50-foot putt. North, who said he had a bad cold and "felt awful yesterday," figured the sixth hole was the turning point in his game, which he said has improved greatly in the last four weeks.

"I was in trouble there," he said, "but I made a 15-footer and that was a real boost." North joined the tour in 1973 but has never won a tournament. He has pocketed $40,714 this year and has career earnings of $144,306.

First prize in this year's $175,000 B.C. Open is $35,000. Baird, 36, of Miami Beach, said he scrambled all the way. "I had 10 or 12 chances for birdie putts, but I didn't putt well."

Burns, recently turned 26 and a pro since July 1, said his driver failed him, "so I used a lot of irons, six of them off the tee."

"The home crowd here makes me get goose-bumps," said Karl, who had a long following. "But I try not to think about them," added Karl, who shot a 62 here five years ago in a non-tournament match.

In Saturday morning's quarter-finals, it will be Bean against Phil Kenny, 22, of Northbrook, Ill.; Ridley against Veghte; Henri DeLozier, 28, of Silver Spring, Md., against Mark Boyajian, 26, a locksmith from Belleville, Ill.;

and Fergus against 19-year-old Bill Loeffler of Englewood, Colo. Kenny, four down at the turn, rallied for a 1-up victory over Paul Haire of Memphis, Tenn.; DeLozier beat David DuPre of Colombia, S.C. 3-and-2; Boyajian sidelined Bill Mitchell of Princeton, Ky. 3-and-2; and Loeffler turned back Stan Price of Pittsburgh, 4-and-3.

Morning Briefing

A Sports Roundup

FOOTBALL

A mononucleosis epidemic that has felled most of South Carolina State's football players has forced the school to cancel its season-opening game at Gardner-Webb College Sept. 6. Cincinnati Bengals general manager and head coach Paul Brown says he generally agrees with Washington Redskins President Edward Bennett Williams' suggestion to decrease the number of exhibition games and increase regular season contests.

The Southern California Sun announced it has signed kicker Ed Strickland, who was with the New York Giants of the NFL last season.

Damien Nygaard, a former Australian football player, was signed as a punting specialist by the Green Bay Packers of the NFL.

The Philadelphia Bell of the WFL signed former all-pro linebacker Myron Pottios to coach the club's defensive line.

BASEBALL

Shortstop Bert Campaneris, who has a groin injury, will be out of the Oakland A's lineup for at least a week, owner Charles O. Finley said.

Jim Bouton, former New York Yankee star, pitched the Portland Mavericks past the Bellingham Dodgers 4-3 in the first game of a Northwest League doubleheader. Bouton is 4-1 in his comeback try after five years as a sportscaster and writer.

The Atlanta Braves were officially eliminated from the National League West race Thursday night without touching a baseball as front-running Cincinnati beat St. Louis to move 3½ games ahead of Atlanta with 30 games remaining.

American League President Lee MacPhail named Dale Ford to the A.L. umpiring crew as a replacement for Merlyn Anthony, who resigned a week ago for personal reasons.

The Houston Astros have called up outfielder Art Gardner, infielder Larry Milbourne and pitchers Paul Siebert and Mike Stanton from their farm system.

BASKETBALL

Minnesota's human rights commissioner charged the University of Minnesota with race discrimination in its selection of a new head basketball coach. William Wilson said his charge was based on "what appears to be reliable information" that Bill Coffield, an assistant coach at the University of Virginia, was passed over for the Minnesota job because he is black.

Minnesota Athletic Director Paul Giel said he chose Jim Dutcher as basketball coach because he "knows the territory" and had recruiting connections in the Big Ten.

Kentucky State University basketball coach Lucius Mitchell says he did not accept any money acting as agent for two of his former players, as alleged by the NCAA. Mitchell was suspended for one year without pay in connection with the signings of Elmore Smith and Travis Grant to professional contracts.

The New Orleans Jazz of the NBA announced the signing of 7-0 Andrew Hampton, a fifth-round draft choice from Kentucky State, and Rick Schmidt, a 6-5 forward from Illinois picked in the sixth round.

OTHER SPORTS

Wilson Sporting Goods Co. said it is recalling 167,000 football helmet masks manufactured since 1972 for use by youths. The firm urged "immediate return of the involved helmets even if previously tested and that none should be used in competitive play if a crack or break appears." Helmet models involved are F2053, F2060, F2255 and G0872.

John Walker, the world's fastest miler, won his specialty at the International Athletics Club meet at London's Crystal Palace in 3:53.62, a new stadium record.

One worker was killed and four others were injured when an 85-ton concrete radial support beam collapsed at the main stadium for the 1976 Olympic Games, it was reported.

All 13 starters in Saturday's golden anniversary Hambletonian were pronounced fit on the eve of the classic.

University of Wisconsin Athletic Director Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch, just back from Hawaii, said he was withdrawing from consideration for the athletic directorship at the University of Hawaii.

TVS sports network expressed satisfaction with its seven-week series of nationally televised fights, which concludes Sept. 5 and said it "will return with a series of 20 Friday night fights next spring."

The European representative for Colombian boxer Rodrigo Valdes confirmed that the World Boxing Council middleweight champion would take on Moroccan-born frenchman Max Cohen in a title fight before the end of the year.

Regattas On Tap

By Associated Press

With the Labor Day weekend, two of the state's largest sailing regattas are on tap.

The Fifth Annual Great Missouri River Raft Regatta, a two-day event starting Saturday, and the Sixth Annual Governor's Cup Regatta on Lake McCaughy, which begins Saturday, and will run through Monday.

This year, the Missouri River Regatta has been divided into two divisions, canoes and rafts. In previous years, canoes have not been allowed in the race.

The canoe division will race Saturday, the rafts on Sunday. The starting point will be at the Cottonwood Marina, two miles north of Blair, and the finish line, 33.2 miles downstream, will be the Greater Omaha Marina.

At last report, 42 canoes from six states were entered in Saturday's competition, and 162 rafts were entered for Sunday's event.

Hank Katzenberger, regatta promoter, said, "it's the biggest one regatta they'll see around here in a long time."

More than 150 sailboats are expected for the Governor's Cup Regatta.

Five separate races are scheduled, including a larger, 15-mile "cruising" course for larger boats.

Colorado sailors have won the Governor's Cup every year since the race began, and Bob Kesslering of Aspen, last year's champ, will have his "Fireball" back this year to defend his title.

Sunday Racing To Be Decided

South Sioux City (UPI) — The Dakota County Commissioners have set a Sept. 16 date for a special election on the question of Sunday racing at Atokad Park at the request of the Atokad Racing Association in response to a law passed by the unicameral this year.

The law was sponsored by Sen. John Murphy of South Sioux City.

The legislation says there may be Sunday racing in counties of less than 20,000 in population if it is approved by the voters.

The Atokad Association has agreed to finance the special election.

Murphy contended the Atokad track needs a number of costly repairs, but can't raise the money through its traditional late season racing schedule.

He maintained the track needed something to attract more people and said that Sunday racing would be the best method of getting larger crowds and more money.
